DAVAO CITY Sept, 29 - A new barangay health center was turned over to residents of Barangay Inawayan in Sta. Cruz town, province of Davao del Sur last September 17. The health center was built by Therma South Incorporated, a subsidiary of AboitizPower. It is part of the community health enhancement program implemented by TSI and Barangay Inawayan. "This project aims to improve the health center of Inawayan being identified as the most frequently used facility of the barangay. The former health center of Inawayan is dilapidated and is still in the old location of the barangay hall, which which is around 300 meters away," said Jason C. Magnaye, TSI Corporate Social Responsibility Manager. "Through this new health center, we hope that those living in Barangay Inawayan and neighboring communities will have better access to health care services by the government," said Sebastian R. Lacson, President and Chief Operations Officer of Therma South Inc. during the turn-over rites last Sept. 17. "We would like to extend our thanks to Therma South, who has been supporting the community since they came here. The support you have given to us will never be forgotten," said Sta. Cruz Mayor Alexis C. Almendras who graced the turn-over ceremonies. The health center is funded by TSI, Aboitiz Foundation the local government of Sta. Cruz. Aside from the health center the Community Health Enhancement Program also bears an information, education campaign (IEC) to the host communities of TSI on proper health and safety measures regarding their respiratory health and basic sanitation practices. Apart from Inawayan, the health IEC campaign will also reach Barangay Darong in Sta. Cruz, Davao del Sur and in Barangays Binugao and Sirawan in Toril, Davao City. (PIA/RG Alama)
